BEST BET: Race 7 - #1 Vincero

This gelding has turned out to be a very sharp claim for trainer Saffie Joseph Jr., and is 2-for-2 since moving to this barn. Switching to the main track proved to be the right move, and today he will turn back slightly to the 7 furlong distance, which I think is his most potent spot.

LONGSHOT: Race 4 - #5 Looking for More

Making just her second start, this filly by He's Had Enough is taking a slight drop in class and should also move forward with some experience under her belt. She did not get away from the gate well in her debut, and gets jockey Edgard Zayas up today, who is a talented gate rider and has had an exceptionally strong meet. This is a wide open maiden claiming race and I expect improvement from this filly at a nice price.
