BEST BET: Race 7 - #3 R Happy Ending

After a roughly four month layoff, R Happy Ending switched to the turf and, at a big price, was beaten just a head. I expect her to improve second off the bench, and her performance last out makes her the horse to beat in here.

LONGSHOT: Race 1 - #8 Montauk Miss

This filly is turning back in distance to 5 furlongs on the turf, the distance at which she started in her debut. She is making her third start for her third different trainer, and after a nightmare trip last time, I'm hoping the freshening since January will help her improve. Jose Garoffalo's horses have been running well lately, and Montauk Miss will be a nice price.
