BEST BET: Race 3 - #3 Devilish Romance

Armando De la Cerda runs a top-notch operation, and when looking at stats for first off the claim with winners last time out on the turf, he his 2-for-4 winning and 3-for-4 in the money over the past five years. It's a small sample size, but he does a good job in keeping horses in good form. After winning by more than three lengths last time, Devilish Romance will stay at the same level and keeps Tyler Gaffalione up.

LONGSHOT: Race 9 - #11 Promete

Although he was a well-beaten fourth last time out, Promete faced perhaps the toughest competition in the likes of Blue Harbor, Charlie Mops, and Completely Bonkers. Dropping down into the $30,000 claiming ranks, this colt does have to deal with an outside post, but seems to have talent going two turns on the turf.
