BEST BET: Race 2 - #4 Dressed in Heels

Not only does Dressed in Heels look to be the main controlling speed in this race, but she also is looking for her third win in a row, gets a slight class drop, and gets a rider in Tyler Gaffalione who has been winning up a storm. She's certainly found her home since moving to the Armando De la Cerda barn and stretching out to the mile.

LONGSHOT: Race 8 - #6 Savingtime

The feature race of the day contains several horses that faced each other in their last outing, one of them being Savingtime. She was a bit unsettled prior to the race, and unfortunately was squeezed back at the start before making a good closing run up the rail to be third. She has not won since May of 2016, and that will certainly help bettors get a good price on her, but she has been facing consistently tough competition and running solid races for the past year.
