BEST BET: Race 12 - #6 Stormy Embrace

This mare will be a very short price, and rightly so. She won the G2 Princess Rooney last year as a longshot, but backed that up keeping good company throughout the Championship Meet and finishing well in graded stakes. She was given a roughly four month break, and came back with an impressive victory in state bred stakes competition last time out, winning by more than 10 lengths at her preferred distance of 7 furlongs. She should be very tough today, and trainer Kathleen O'Connell has said another trip to the Breeders' Cup could be in order for this very consistent mare.

LONGSHOT: Race 6 - #6 Union's Destiny

This colt has not raced since mid-May, and before his freshening was running against the top three-year-olds in training in Kentucky Derby prep races here at Gulfstream Park. Now, he is back at the races and gets a turn-back in distance to 7 furlongs, which I think might suit him very well. He is a leggy colt, and while his breeding suggests he might like longer distances (he is by Union Rags) he has the appearance of a one turn, elongated sprint type horse. I think this is a wide open race with plenty of speed signed on, and this colt should sit the trip.
