BEST BET: Race 7 - #1 Peace Points

This gelding has been strong at this level, and should get the perfect pace setup today. There looks to be an abundance of speed signed on, and Peace Points seems to be the strongest closer. I do like him on the main track, despite the fact that he looked stronger on the grass at the start of his career. Miguel Vasquez, a strong finisher, stays aboard.

LONGSHOT: Race 2 - #9 Tapa Liath

The class drop today should be key for this mare. Her last two starts look very poor on paper, but prior to that she had a strong win against claiming competition. Her dirtied up form should ensure a nice price, but when she has been spotted at the right level, she has run very well.
