BEST BET: Race 12 - #3 Homemade Salsa

Visually, Homemade Salsa appeared to be one of the most prepared two-year-olds for her debut race, and seems to have been working well since. Making her second start for trainer Mike Maker, she will try the grass for the first time with a top turf barn and is the full sister to Grade 2 Winner Conquest Two Step, who won on the turf. In addition, her debut race produced two next out winners.

LONGSHOT: Race 13 - #9 Unstablenthemornin

The My Dear Girl division will most likely have a clear favorite in Dessert Honeys, but by no means does it appear to be a cut-and-dry race. Unstablenthemornin has had two starts so far, but both of them have been on the turf. What sets her apart at a price is that she has faced open stakes competition, shipping out to Del Mar at the start of September. In addition, her physical size should be conducive to the two turn distance, and he dam won going long on the dirt.
