BEST BET: Race 10 - #5 Weisser

If this colt runs anything like he did last time out, he's going to take some beating today. He broke his maiden against state bred special weight company, and then went right back to the winners circle with a victory against state bred allowance company. His last two races have been against open, and he has made a great account of himself. I like that he has experience with a couple races outside of the state bred ranks, and he also has natural speed.

LONGSHOT: Race 5 - #1 Search for Sammy

Usually, I like to see Steve Dwoskin's horses have a race or two off of the layoff, but this particular filly has shown in the past that she can run well fresh. I remember getting her at a great 7-1 price when she won her maiden race after a layoff from August to October. Now, she hasn't raced since December, so this is a longer break, but she has been working steadily and getting a drop in class off the bench. Carlos Montalvo stays aboard.
