BEST BET: 4 - #4 Al Taweel

I liked this horse at a price last time out, and, although he was bet down, I thought he ran a really big race switching back to the turf. He comes back at the same level he dropped down to last out, and should be able to build off of that race, as he's also now second off the bench. He came from far back to close and finish a good second after running against tougher on the dirt, and while he likely won't be a price today, I like him in this spot.

LONGSHOT: Race 9 - #7 Baby I'm Perfect

I have truly been waiting for this horse to try the turf since he debuted, so when I saw him entered in a grass race today at a big price, I had to make him my longshot! Baby I'm Perfect had the look of a turf horse to me, and has plenty of turf pedigree, including the dam, who was a 2-time turf winner, and two siblings who won on turf. He has some speed as well, so we'll see if he stacks up class-wise against this field.
