BEST BET: Race 2 - #3 Trapped At Sea

There is quite a bit of speed signed on in this race, and this filly has the right running style to be successful in this spot. She is coming in fresh after not racing since mid-July, she has been training very well for her return to the races, including a bullet work on October 3 over the Gulfstream main track. She should sit a perfect trip in here under jockey Paco Lopez, who has continued to ride in top form.

LONGSHOT: Race 6 - #7 Diamond Bachelor

It's been a long time sine this gelding has seen the winners circle, but he has proven that he tries every time and is very consistent. He gets the blinkers on today, which might be the key for him. He has worn cheek pieces, and the addition of full blinkers might help with some focus and to give him something more at the end. He has some natural speed, but has shown some versatility as well, and will be a nice price.
