BEST BET: Race 2 - #2 Vincero

He'll be a short price, but Vincero really looks like the one to beat here. Coming off a good win over this track going 7 furlongs, he'll get a stretch out today to the mile. The key here is that a mile is two turns at GPW, while it is one turn across town at Gulfstream. Vincero has a win going two turns on the turf, so we know he can handle this added distance. Some others in this field do not have the experience or success going the two turns.

LONGSHOT: Race 8 - #1 Gia Lia Joe

This filly will be facing winners for the first time and will definitely be tested for class, but I like that Emisael Jaramillo stays after their victory together last time out, and I especially like that she has some natural speed. She wired the field last time out, right here at Gulfstream Park West, and in this Wednesday finale, there does not seem to be a lot of pace signed on. My hope is that this filly sends from the inside and gets brave on the front end.
