

JASON BLEWITT'S

Race Analysis

Saturday, November 3, 2018

RACE 1: 10 – 8 – 7 – 6

RACE 2: 4 – 3 – 5 – 1

RACE 3: 5 – 6 – 7 – 4

RACE 4: 3 – 4 – 9 – 1

RACE 5: 9 – 1 – 3 – 7

RACE 6: 2 – 7 – 9 – 10

RACE 7: 6 – 7 – 8 – 1

RACE 8: 1 – 12 – 11 – 13

RACE 9: 2 – 3 – 9 – 11

RACE 10: 1 – 9 – 8 – 2

GPW, Day 25 of 40: Hope you're tied on for another 10-race Saturday at Gulfstream Park West. And this isn't your typical, lazy-hazy Saturday afternoon in Miami Gardens. Nope. The heart of the 35th Breeders' Cup will take place at Churchill Downs, as the BC returns to Louisville KY for the first time in eight years. Just think, racing has crowned not one, but two Triple Crown winners in the years between the '11 BC and this year's edition! Unreal. Naturally, it goes without saying (but I'm gonna say it, err...I mean write it anyway) I hope you have a terrific and profitable Breeders' Cup. I still remember watching my first Breeders' Cup as a very green, but wide-eyed rookie racing fan back in 1993. That year's edition featured just seven BC races (remember that?) at Santa Anita Park. Although a quarter century has passed, I still can't fathom Dehere losing the Juvenile (he did, to Brocco) or Bertrando being caught in the Classic (133-1 French invader Arcangues rolled by him in deep stretch.) As for Saturday's BC Classic, my rooting loyalty obviously lies with the overachieving, South Florida-based, Gunnevera. As for the local GPW turf stakes Saturday, I am taking the Irish-bred Gidu in the Showing Up – he drew far better than a number of the other major, ship-in players that wound up with tough outside posts – and Go Noni Go in the Cellars Shiraz. She too drew an excellent post (stall 2) beneath Emisael Jaramillo. The Cellars Shiraz goes as race 6, the Showing Up is race 8. First post is 12:20 ET!

Some Late-P5 Action: November is here and judging from some of the trainers listed on Saturday's GPW program, the snowbirds have begun their annual pilgrimage to glorious South Florida. That is really evident in both turf stakes, with ship-in contenders for Todd Pletcher, Mike Maker, Tim Hills, Jason Servis, Jorge Abreu and Christophe Clement to name a few. Both stakes play part in the late Pick 5. And this play costs $18 for 50 cents with Dash of Dazzle as the key single in race 7; hoping for more of the same off the claim for trainer Peter Walder.

R6: 2,7,9 -Trip and racing luck will matter big time; Clement's Sister Sunday will go favored

R7: 6 -Have always liked this barn in these types of races; 8yo gelding is super-sharp

R8: 1,12 -Admittedly, I might be a touch light using just two shippers; loved Showing Up for BT

R9: 2,3 -All about the two major – but realistic – dropdowns here

R10: 1,8,9 -How 'bout a very tough 12-horse turf cash-out race for ya; best of luck!